		Expected outcome	The Bachelor of Arts (BA) is a versatile undergraduate degree that offers a broad education in the humanities, social sciences, and arts. It aims to develop students' critical thinking, communication, research, and problem-solving skills. Students can expect to gain a comprehensive understanding of different cultures, histories, and societies, while exploring various fields of study, such as literature, history, philosophy, and psychology. Upon completion of a BA program, graduates will have the ability to analyze complex issues, express ideas coherently, and engage in intellectual debates. They will be prepared for diverse career paths in fields such as journalism, education, public service, and business. The BA also serves as a strong foundation for further academic pursuits, including master's and doctoral programs in a variety of disciplines.
